

You Have the Right to Receive a Good Faith Estimate Explaining How Much Your Medical Care Will Cost

You have the right to receive a Good Faith Estimate for the total expected cost of any non-emergency items or services. This includes related costs like medical tests, prescription drugs, equipment, and fees.

- You must be given a Good Faith Estimate in writing at least one business day before your medical service or item. You can ask your healthcare provider or any provider you choose for a Good Faith Estimate before you schedule a service or purchase a medical item.
- If you receive a bill that is at least $400 more than your Good Faith Estimate, you can dispute the bill.
- Make sure to save a copy or picture of your Good Faith Estimate.
 - For questions or more information about your right to a Good Faith Estimate, visit www.cms.gov/nosurprises

If you have questions about an estimate you received for an upcoming appointment, please call the number located on the bottom of the estimate.

If you have questions about your bill, please call the number located on your billing statement.
